

FAST TRACKING YOUR FEMALE TALENT

Women at Work

Anneli Blundell
people whisperer

CONTENTS

What does the program aim to achieve?.....	03
What's the impact of more women in senior leadership?.....	04
What's going on for female talent?.....	05
Where are all the women?.....	06
What's wrong with our pipelines for female talent?.....	07
What does the Women at Work program cover?.....	09
Program Options.....	11
Materials included.....	12
Next steps.....	13
Testimonials.....	14
Introducing Anneli Blundell.....	16
Qualifications.....	18
What did other women enjoy about the masterclass?.....	19

What does the program aim to achieve?

THE PROGRAM AIMS TO:

- ▶ Strengthen the talent pipeline with women ready for senior leadership roles
- ▶ Provide women with the confidence and strategies to step forward for the senior roles
- ▶ Improve business results by leveraging the full capability available from a diverse work force
- ▶ Reduce 'quota appointments' for women who are not ready or supported to succeed
- ▶ Assist women to embed new behaviours that advance professional visibility and potential

What's the impact of more women in senior leadership?

Most companies don't need these statistics to know that more women in senior roles is not only the right thing to do, but makes good business sense. The question is, how do we make this happen more strategically and more quickly?

Bring in the dosh

Companies with a larger number of senior women produce better financial performance¹.

Enhanced culture

Women rate higher in overall leadership effectiveness, than their male counterparts, with the greatest gap evident at the highest executive levels³.

+6%

Improve

engagement

11,434 adults surveyed by Gallup showed a 6% higher engagement rate of employees who were led by a female².

Lift the pack

Boards with more women are more ethical;⁴ companies with more women on executive committees bring in more revenue⁵; and balancing a team of men with women lifts the collective IQ⁶.

What's going on for female talent?

Getting ahead at work is as much about being seen as a leader as it is about actually leading. Doing a great job, playing by the rules, and working hard is not enough to get ahead.

Women are rarely rewarded for being humble achievers. Women can be deemed the greatest leaders in the world by the people they lead but these are not the people who are promoting them and sponsoring them.

A good leadership reputation needs to be as visible from above as it is palpable from below. Without the ability to manage up, speak up and have a visible leadership brand across the organisation, women jeopardise their opportunity to play a bigger game.

Where are all the women?

Many companies are working hard to address the gender imbalance. They are focusing on diversity and inclusion. They are introducing flexible workplace opportunities and ensuring pay transparency; but this alone is not enough.

There are many reasons that women are under-represented in the senior ranks – company culture, flexible work practices, family/career responsibilities, limited opportunity, glass ceilings, and much more. This program is not an attempt to address all of these issues; but rather, this program aims to give women the confidence and tools to step forward sooner, to contribute their value more confidently, and to deliver the value that comes from visible contribution, beyond any mandated targets or quotas.

What's wrong with our pipelines?

Empty pipeline

Building a pipeline of talent does not occur as a result of increasing targets, quotas or mandates alone. This action is only one side of the coin. Sometimes companies put the call out for more female candidates and they are met with silence. Women need to be encouraged and supported with the right tools and mindsets to step forward into these opportunities, more often and more proactively.

Leaky pipeline

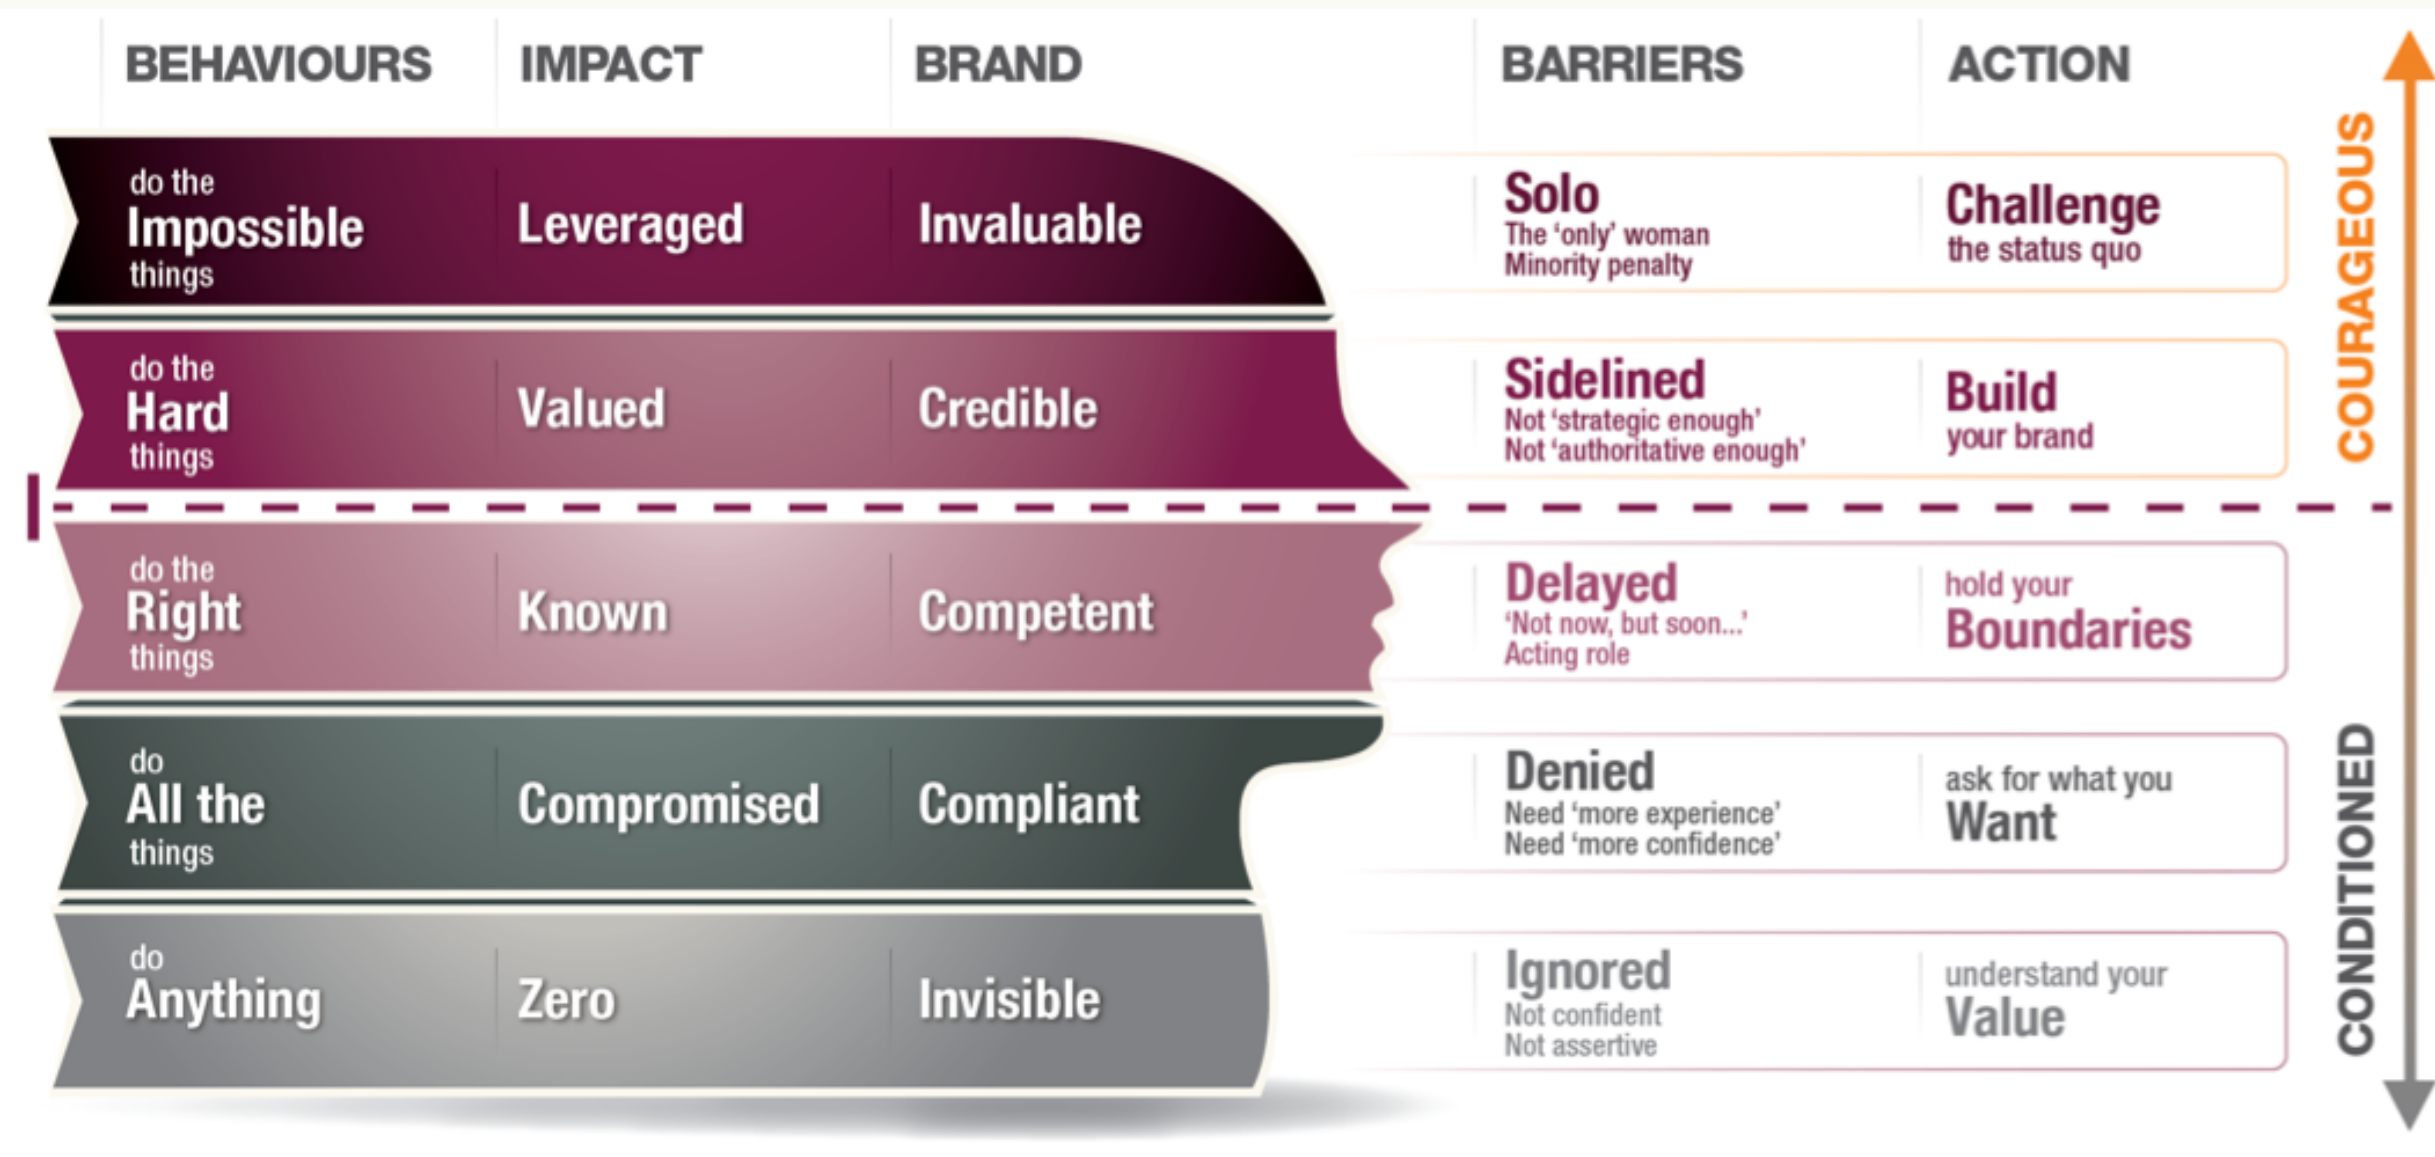

Research shows that women will wait until they feel 100% qualified for a role before applying, whereas men will apply when they feel 60% ready.⁷ There are talented women waiting 'to be ready' for their next role, without realising they already have what it takes. As a result, they don't apply, don't get promoted and eventually they opt out of the pipeline altogether.

Rusty pipeline

Sometimes women feel pushed out of the system because they don't belong. They have no role model of success they can relate to in a way that inspires them to step up. They might feel like they have to 'play the game' or compromise their family situation in order to succeed and they're not prepared to do that in order to get to the top. Without any other options, the culture pushes them out of the pipeline.

The Gendered Career Ladder

Women need to opt in to the opportunities, and take action toward their leadership potential. When they don't they are at risk of being quiet achievers, invisible, undervalued or silent contributors. When they opt in they become valued as capable leaders, and they build a reputation for credible leadership that gets results. They go beyond great leadership ability and consolidate a strong leadership.

What does the

Women at Work

program cover?

Women need to see future leadership roles as attractive and viable options for them; AND they also need to take action to step into these roles to build their leadership brand. Leadership visibility comes from a combination of having the confidence to step in, the credibility to speak up and the clout to be taken seriously and stand out. This is how women can contribute their true potential and build influence, engagement and impact as a result.

The program offers the following elements:

- ▶ Understand the impact of confidence on risk taking, self-promotion, reputation and results
- ▶ Explore personal and positional power and how that impacts confidence, visibility and results
- ▶ Learn the communication habits that kill leadership credibility
- ▶ Apply key behaviours to be heard, be seen and to make an impact in meetings and presentations
- ▶ Learn how to identify and uphold boundaries through hard conversations
- ▶ Develop strategies for support through sponsorship and mentoring
- ▶ Appreciate the power of networks for career mobility

Program Options

Option 1

- ▶ One-day master class (min 8, max 24 participants) (1 day face to face or 2 x ½ day virtual sessions)

Total: $1,320 inc GST, per head

Option 2

- ▶ Managers' briefing session before the masterclass
- ▶ One-day master class (min 8, max 24 participants) (1 day face to face or 2 x ½ day virtual sessions)
- ▶ 3 x 1.5hr group mentoring (max 8 per group), face to face or online depending on geographic spread
- ▶ Program celebration and review session for all participants, managers and executive sponsors

Total: $4,350 inc GST, per head

Option 3

- ▶ Managers' briefing session before the masterclass
- ▶ One-day master class (min 8, max 24 participants) (1 day face to face or 2 x ½ day virtual sessions)
- ▶ Plus 5 1.5hr group mentoring (max 8 per group), face to face or online depending on geographic spread
- ▶ Program celebration and review session for all participants, managers and executive sponsors

Total: $5,690 inc GST, per head

Next steps
Contact our office to explore the impact our program can have in your business.

 0423 023 032

 ab@anneliblundell.com

 www.anneliblundell.com

What our clients have to say about the program

"Anneli is one to watch! So far we have had 50 of our high performing women at Mercedes-Benz, from across the business, graduate from the program and the feedback we have received has been incredible. In the space of months, Anneli is able to grow the confidence and/or clout of every single participant to new heights. Anneli's passion for women and truly inclusive workplaces is real and compelling. She understands that in order to make genuine progress in regards to gender equality, everyone must be included in the conversation regularly. The way she leads such open dialogues (with men and women) on the topic is inspiring to witness and truly, changing the game."

-Peter Grogan, HR Director, Daimler

"Anneli has been a fantastic support in IRI's goal to promote gender equity and women in leadership. Through her Women at Work program, Anneli not only engaged and inspired the women participating in the program but also, their managers, and other senior leaders across our business. We were surprised by how quickly we built momentum and started to see visible change. One of her biggest impacts was through her group coaching sessions with the program participants, which offered a safe space for our female leaders to explore the gender landscape and learn how to navigate it. Anneli's passion for promoting inclusive leadership has also helped to bring everyone into the conversation. It has helped us to create an environment where both men and women are now collectively engaging in building a workplace that is more equitable, inclusive and inspiring."

-Nicole Green, Group People & Culture Director
APAC, IRI

"This program was very valuable and different from other courses I've been on (some others have been a bit wishy washy). Everything we covered you could take away and apply. It's exactly what we need in our business at all levels. I enjoyed the pace, the day, the set up, listening to others' stories, and comparing shared experiences. The formula of the program was not overloaded, so you go away retaining a lot info. It was also interesting to be in the room with my peers. There are lots of other women who would also benefit from this."

-Senior Manager, Automotive Industry

"Fantastic session! Delivered excellently, right content, right pace, right interactions, authentic examples. It demystified the male versus female inherent differences and then provided relevant actions and activities that I can do to be successful in a male dominated environment." -Jane, GM PMO

Introducing Anneli Blundell

L&D Professional of the Year from the Australian Institute of Training and Development and Gold Stevie Award Winner for Entrepreneur of the Year, 2021, Anneli's passion for decoding people and performance dynamics make her a sought after speaker, mentor and leadership expert.

With her keynote speaking, and flagship programs on Women@Work, and Allyship in Action, Anneli brings her gender advocacy to large groups of leaders, creating safe spaces to explore the issues and opportunities of inclusion and belonging in practical and profound ways. Anneli gives leaders the tools and strategies to value all voices equally, to sponsor hidden talent, and to develop the unlikely leaders waiting to be discovered. It's about knowing how to cultivate the right conditions to turn potential into performance at every level, for everyone.

To Anneli, workplace equality is not only about policies; it's also about the daily practices that support them. This is not about eradicating our human bias, it's about humanising our leadership habits.

You can connect with Anneli on:

 <https://au.linkedin.com/in/anneliblundell>  @AnneliBlundell

 www.anneliblundell.com

References

[1] Schwartz, T. (2015). The New York Times. Overcoming the Confidence Gap for Women. Accessed 6th of November 2015. Retrieved from http://www.nytimes.com/2015/06/13/business/dealbook/overcoming-the-confidence-gap-for-women.html?_r=3

[2] Zenger, J., & Folkman, J. (2012, March 15). Are Women Better Leaders than Men? Retrieved August 12, 2016, from <https://hbr.org/2012/03/a-study-in-leadership-women-do/>

[3] The State of the American Manager: Analytics and Advice for Leaders [PDF]. (2015). Washington, D.C.: Gallup.

[4] Wood, R. (2012). Building a Business Case for Diversity [PDF]. Melbourne: Centre for Ethical Leadership, Melbourne Business School.

[5] The Business of Empowering Women [PDF]. (2010, January). Washington, D.C.: Social Sector Office, McKinsey & Company.

[6] Woolley, A., Malone, T. W., & Chabris, C. F. (2015, January 16). Why Some Teams Are Smarter Than Others. Retrieved August 12, 2016, from <http://www.nytimes.com/2015/01/18/opinion/sunday/why-some-teams-are-smarter-than-others.html>

[7] Kay, K., & Shipman, C. (2014, May). The Confidence Gap. Retrieved August 12, 2016, from <http://www.theatlantic.com/features/archive/2014/04/the-confidence-gap/359815/>

in <https://www.linkedin.com/in/anneliblundell>

 @AnneliBlundell  www.anneliblundell.com